Mechanical Constructor Wanted for Growing Robotics Company

Are you passionate about constructing unique and innovative solutions that make a difference for our customers? Do you want to be part of a professionally competent and committed community, where the road from design to execution is short? Then Technicon may be the right place for you.

About the job

Technicon is looking for a mechanical constructor who can contribute to concept development, design and manufacturing of special machines and robot systems. Depending on experience and competencies, you will either be responsible for the mechanics of the entire system or parts of it. At Technicon, we work in interdisciplinary teams, and we work project-oriented. You will therefore be able to follow the entire project process and finally see your constructions take shape in our own workshop.

At Technicon we need one who can help solve the following work tasks:

- Concept development and development of special solutions
- Development of turn-key solutions within industry 4.0
- 2D/3D construction
- Selection of components, sensors, and methods

About you

We imagine that you have a sense of detail but can zoom out and see things in a larger perspective when needed. That you have an analytical mindset and good communication skills. That you thrive on having more balls in the air where you manage to make processes concrete and operational.

We are a growth company where things go fast at times, so we therefore emphasize that you manage to prioritize the effort and maintain an overview.

You have a relevant education in quality assurance, CSR, environmental management, law or similar. It is also an advantage if you have professional experience in the field.

Are you interested in applying for the job?

We look forward to receiving your application and associated CV as soon as possible. Application and CV are sent via jobindex. We regularly call candidates for interview.
